Sasha Wasley is a West Australian author with a PhD in literature and communications - and a passion for young people's literacy. She has worked as a facilitator with young people, adults and ESL students

Empowering young people to write

Sasha will bring her knowledge of the writing craft to your primary or secondary students, igniting their interest in creating strong, well-structured narratives, interesting characters and unique storylines.

Empower your students as writers and creators!

PUT THE POWER IN THEIR HANDS

Culture is built on stories

Stories are how we learn, how we teach, and how we grow and change. Every child or young adult has the capacity to write or tell a good story; sometimes they just need some extra inspiration. Sasha works to ignite the passion for story by breaking storytelling down to its nuts and bolts: ideas, characters and plot.

A published book in 10 weeks

Sasha can also provide weekly workshops across a whole school term, culminating in the production of a professionally bound anthology of short stories for students to read with pride and families to treasure forever. This makes a wonderful keepsake or fundraiser for a graduating class.
